PROFES, the International Conference on Product-Focused Software Process Improvement, is among the top recognized software development and process improvement conferences. The 20th edition of PROFES will be held in Barcelona, Spain, from November 27 to 29, 2019. PROFES organization is composed of international recognized researchers in software engineering. PROFES 2019 is part of a series of conferences presented by profes-conferences.org

The objective of PROFES is to provide a premier forum for practitioners, researchers, and educators to present and discuss experiences, ideas, innovations, as well as concerns related to professional software development and process improvement driven by product and service quality needs. PROFES especially welcomes contributions emerging from applied research to foster industry-academia collaborations of leading industries and research institutions.

Workshops and tutorials

PROFES 2019 will host four tutorials and the following workshops:

- 3rd International Workshop on Managing Quality in Agile and Rapid Software Development Processes (QuASD 2019)
<http://www.quasd.org/>
- 4th International Workshop on Human Factors in Software Processes (HUFO 2019)
